

OFFICER & EDITORIAL STAFF BIOGRAPHIES

Zachary Gorlach is a current Finance major and Business Law minor in the College of Business at Florida Atlantic University. He also serves as the Editor-in-Chief of the Undergraduate Law Journal at Florida Atlantic University. As former lead editor of FAU's Undergraduate Law Journal, honorary member of FAU's Phi Kappa Phi chapter, and former student representative to Boca's House of Representatives, he is passionate about legal issues and the political economy. Serving as a precursor to his legal career, he is currently working as a mortgage lender under professional licensure of finance's most fundamental and critical banking laws. Upon commencement of his baccalaureate degree, he is preparing to attend law school to prepare for his career as a financial attorney. He hopes to then prosecute further litigation in the political world as a monetary and fiscal policymaker.

Kadah Marshall is a Business Management major and Business law minor in the College of Business at Florida Atlantic University. She serves the Undergraduate law Journal of FAU as its Managing Editor. Through her interest in the legal field, Kadah is an active member of Phi Alpha Delta Law fraternity serving as the current Treasurer. With joining both distinguished organizations she has acquired the necessary skills and tools on her path to law school.

Carisse Joseph is a senior at Florida Atlantic University studying Management Information Systems. She currently serves as the Executive editor of the Undergraduate Law Journal of FAU. She is also the Vice President of the Management Information Systems Association. After completing her undergraduate studies, Carisse plans on attending law school and pursuing a career in family law.

Amelie Hamdan is a current senior at Florida Atlantic University, majoring in Criminal justice and minors in Arabic and Psychology. She is a Palestinian-American hoping to pursue a career in Law. Her focus is becoming a human rights attorney or a criminal law attorney. Her exposure to the war between Palestine and Israel has created and shaped her view of the law and a desire to pursue a career in Law. She hopes to advocate for those who don't have a voice and to provide justice for those in need.

Asna Nayani is a Political Science and Sociology Major in the College of Arts and Letters at Florida Atlantic University and currently serves the Undergraduate Law Journal of FAU as Treasurer and an Associate Editor. She is an avid reader and maintains a constant interest in current affairs. After completing her undergraduate degrees, Asna plans to pursue law school with a focus on humanitarian law.

Elizabeth Insuasti is a rising junior at FAU. She was born and raised in South Florida and aspires to graduate with a bachelor's degree double majored in Political Science and History. Her future goals are to attend law school to specialize in immigration law. Additionally, she is passionate about social change, literature, film, and community impact. She loves to watch movies, listen to music, write, read, and bake in her free time. Elizabeth is honored to be a part of the Undergraduate Law Journal of FAU.

AUTHOR BIOGRAPHIES

Giuliana Gibson is a junior at Florida Atlantic University. This is her first year being a part of the Undergraduate Law Journal of FAU. She's Majoring in healthcare administration with a minor in business law and healthcare information systems. Her plans after graduation include attending law school in Florida.

Victoria Denbow is a senior at Florida Atlantic University. She's currently majoring in International Business with a minor in Business Law. Her future career endeavors include going to law school, passing the bar exam, and becoming an attorney while helping her community.