

ENGINEERS: WE'VE GOT LOTS OF REASONS

There are probably a lot of reasons for Engineers to settle in New England.

The stimulation of a diversified intellectual community, for one.

Or the proximity to a cultural and social hub as individually accessible as it is cosmopolitan.

And there's always your standard panoramic view of Mother Nature at work.

But we think Engineers might come because they're looking for a chance to share their imagination and ability with us, one of the world's foremost contractors serving the petrochemical and refinery industries.

At Badger, we offer opportunities for flexibility and creativity unavailable elsewhere. And because our sales have increased so dramatically, we've expanded into a world-wide, internationally recognized organization.

So if you're an Engineer (chemical or mechanical) contact us.

We offer excellent salaries, comprehensive benefits and almost unlimited opportunities to develop your professional future.

And we'll throw New England into the bargain.
