

THE GROWING LINE

Intensive basic and applied research are continually adding new products, and new uses for existing products, to the Chemagro line of quality agricultural chemicals.

These are pesticides which are helping growers throughout the world keep the delicate balance of nature tipped in Mankind's favor. Chemagro's systemic, selective, non-persistent pesticides control pests which harm his food and fiber plants without destroying populations of beneficial insects, or the environment in which we live.

Of the thousands of new compounds synthesized each year, only those few which Chemagro research proves meet the dual standards of helping man without ruining his environment, will reach the marketplace. That's why you can always depend on products which have the familiar Blue Bullseye on the container.
