

CONTRIBUTORS TO THIS ISSUE

James R. Anderson, Jr. is Cartographic Director for the Florida Resources and Environmental Analysis Center at Florida State University. He received his master's degree in geography from Eastern Michigan University in 1973.

Donald Brandes is an assistant professor of geography and planning at Southwest Texas State University. He received his Ph.D. and B.A. from the University of Florida, and his M.A. from the University of Calgary, Alberta.

John A. Cross is an assistant professor of geography at the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh. His research interests are in natural hazards. He received his Ph.D. degree from the University of Illinois in 1979.

Edward A. Fernald is Assistant Vice President for Academic Affairs and Director of the Institute for Science and Public Affairs at The Florida State University. His geographic interests are Florida, land and resource management, and geographic education.

Jeanne Fillman-Richards is a candidate for the M.A. degree at the Department of Geography, University of Florida. Her B.A. is in anthropology from the University of South Carolina.

Clarence M. Head is an associate professor of engineering technology at the University of Central Florida. His interests include geomorphology, environmental, and resource geography. He received his Ph.D. from the University of Georgia in 1975.

Peter A. Krafft is a staff cartographer for the Florida Resources and Environmental Analysis Center at Florida State University. He received his master's degree in geography from Michigan State University in 1979.

Craig Remington is a staff cartographer for the Florida Resources and Environmental Analysis Center at Florida State University. He received his master's degree in geography from Florida State University in 1981.

Harry J. Schaleman, Jr. is an associate professor of geography at the University of South Florida, St. Petersburg Campus. His special areas include regional and historical geography. He received his M.A. degree from Miami University in 1963.

Storm L. Richards is principal transportation planner for Seminole County, Florida and a Ph.D. candidate in geography at the University of Florida. He has a B.A. in anthropology and an M.A. in geography.

Dewey M. Stowers, Jr. is a professor of geography at the University of South Florida. His interests include meteorology, climatology, and historical geography. He received his doctorate degree from Duke University in 1961.