
COASTAL PHOTOGRAPH BY ANDREW D. SHORT

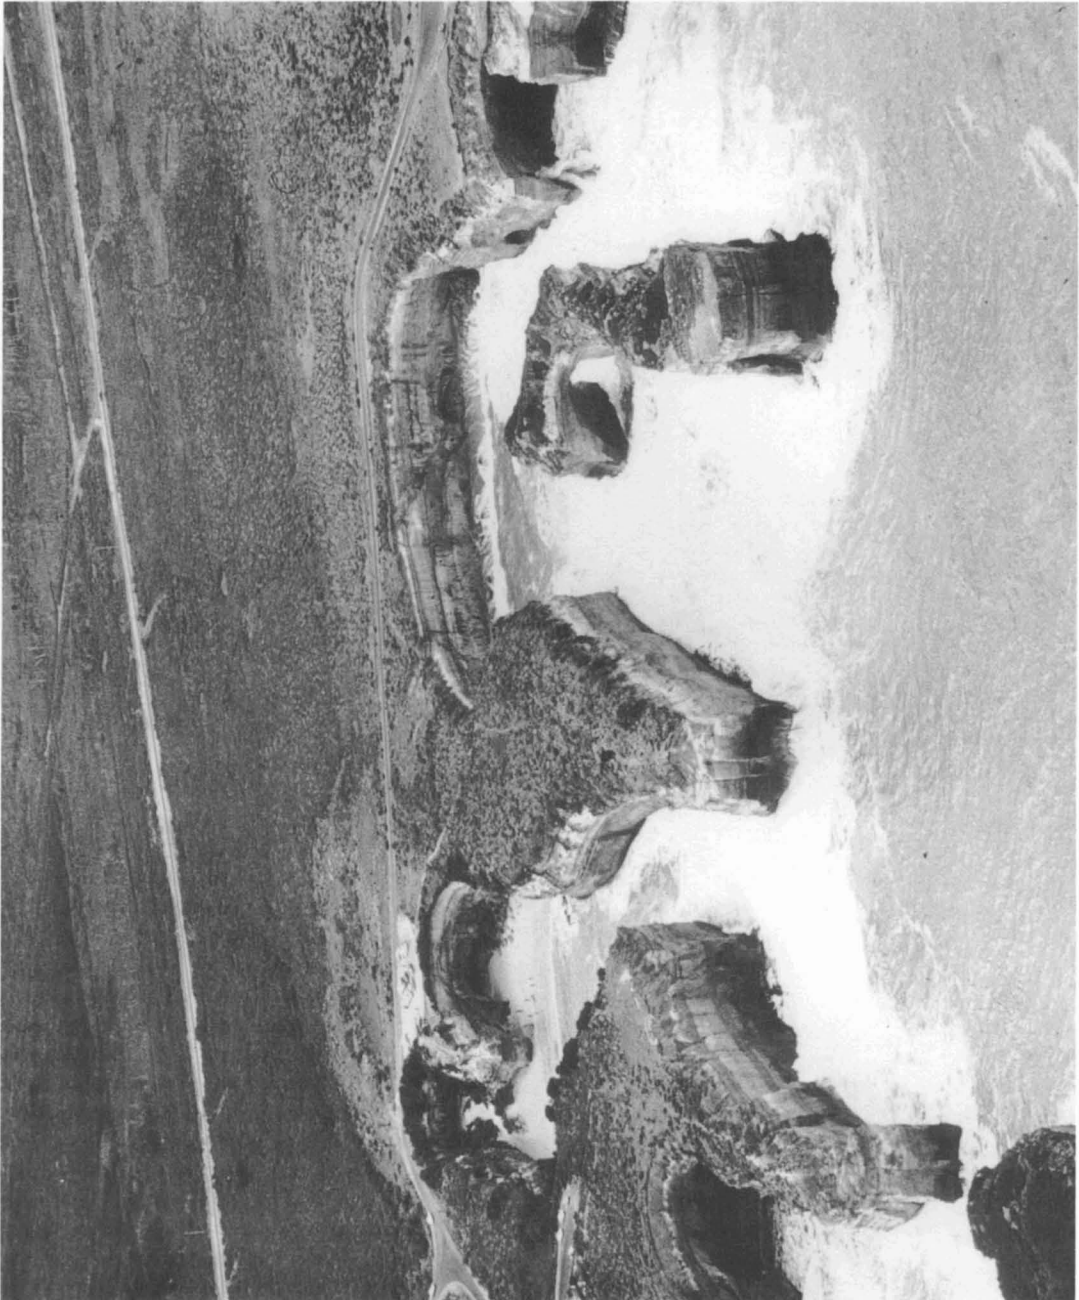

PHOTO 84. Loch Ard Gorge in the Port Campbell National Park, western Victoria. This gorge is named after a ship which was wrecked nearby in 1878. Two sole survivors were washed onto the small beach at left centre. The cliffs formed Tertiary mars and are eroding at a visible rate. (25 March 1978, A.D. Short).