
COASTAL PHOTOGRAPH BY G. MATTHEW ROBOSKY

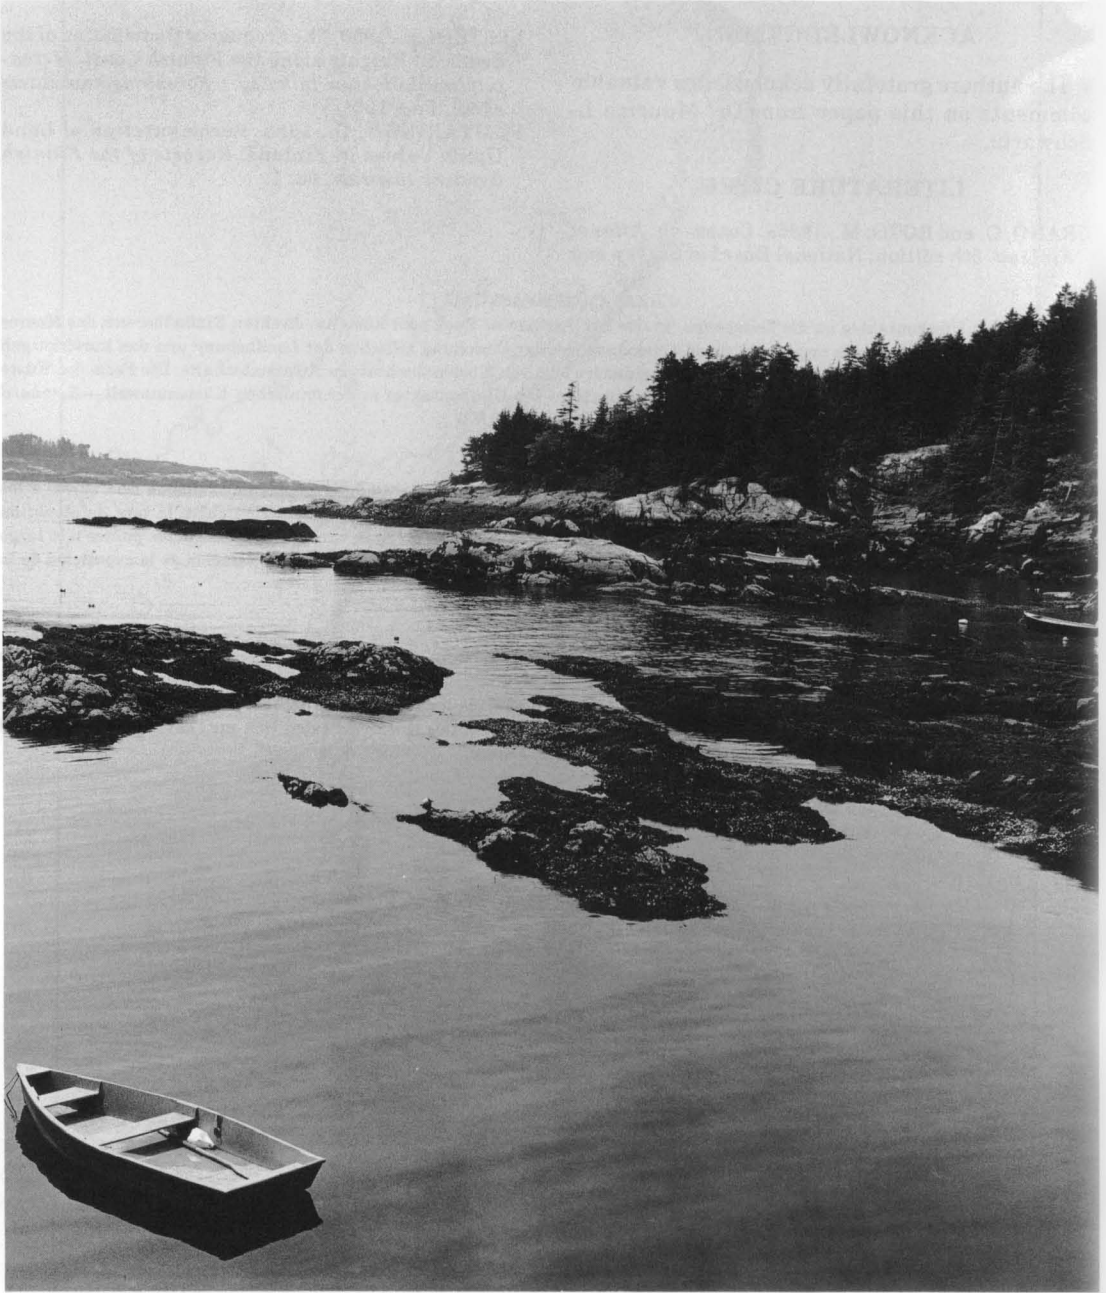

PHOTO 87. Glaciated coast near Brunswick, Maine. Low tide in these drowned valleys expose striated bedrock features. The rocky intertidal zone shown here, with a tidal amplitude of about 2m, hosts a wide diversity of habitats. Small harbors in these fjords provide lobstermen with refuge from fierce North Atlantic storms.