

PHOTO 92. Reykjanes peninsula, southwestern Iceland. Huge Atlantic waves are shown here attacking this rocky coast. Storm waves in this region often reach heights of 20 m or more attesting to the designation of southern Iceland as a high energy coast.